Rebuilt Monitor Wyoming Honolulu Station Ship

W. F. Erving, the Metropolitan Meat Company's agent at San Francisco, made a visit to Mare Island on April 24, and writes of it as follows to his

"I learned while there that the coast-defense monitor Wyoming is nearly m trim, and will be finished in about thirty days, and is expected to be despatched to Honolulu at once as the station boat there. This you may know of, yet it may be news. She has been practically rebuilt, and converted into an oil-burner. A new egg-shaped turret and two of the new 12-inch guns will make her thoroughly up-to-date, and with a crew of 175 men she will be quite an addition to Honelule."

The monitor Wyoming is one of four vessels of the Arkansas class launched in 1900. She is a capable vessel, having a speed of about twelve knots, and being well armed. She carries, in addition to the new two 12 inch guns in the forward turnet, four 4-inch guns, three 6-pounders, four 1-pound automatic and four 1-pound rapid firers, and two Colts. She is also fitted with two 18-inch An instructed delegation for William torpedo tubes above water. Her sister ships are the Arkansas, Nevada and Journal Stream will be sent to Denver Plorids. The information that the Wyoming would probably be sent to this by one Democrate of Hawaii if the station was published in the Advertiser some weeks ago.
